What is the subject of the policy?

How does the policy raise ethical questions or concerns?

Request for Engagement in Development, Review or Revision of a Health Policy

Ethics support can come in a variety of forms. Various options are listed below; give some thought to what might best meet your needs and the Ethics Nova Scotia Health representative will discuss it with you when they call to determine next steps.

- Assistance in the development of a new health policy - e.g., participation in a policy development working group
- Ethics review of a health policy that is currently being developed
- Ethics review of a health policy that is currently under revision
- Help with interpreting the ethics aspects of an existing policy

Who do you think is most responsible for development or review of the policy?

Why is this policy being developed or revised now?

Which background documents or policies would help Ethics Nova Scotia Health in the development or review of this policy?

Please include an electronic copy of the relevant draft or approved health policy with the submitted request form.
