Queens General Hospital

Queens General Hospital is located in Liverpool, on the south shore of Nova Scotia, and serves a population of approximately 10,422 in the Region of Queens Municipality.

The hospital has 22 inpatient beds with a medical unit and a procedure unit. Approximately 150 employees provide the following programs and services:

- Ambulatory Care
- Emergency Department
- Laboratory, blood collection
- Chronic Disease management – diabetes education
- Continuing Care
- Diagnostic Imaging
- Cardiac Services, incl.: EKG; holter monitor; blood pressure monitor; stress testing
- Environmental Services
- Hearing and Speech
- Internal Medicine
- Respiratory Therapy
- Mental Health & Addictions Services
- Nutrition and Food services
- Rehabilitation Services, including physiotherapy and occupational therapy
- Palliative Care
- Pain Management
- Public Health
- Pharmacy
- Renal Dialysis – satellite of QEII
- Telehealth

Queens General Hospital is also home to the Queens collaborative medical group of physicians, nurse practitioner, family practice nurses and clerical staff.

August 2022